18 Question a.

Man: Can I return this tie? It was a gift from my friend but I don't like the color.

Woman: You can exchange it for one of the same price. But you can't get the money back.

Man: OK, then I'd like to choose another one. Could you show me some?

Woman: Sure.

Question: What is the man going to do with the tie he got?

19 Question b.

Woman: I bought some new vitamins for my health.

Man: Really? Do you have to take them with each meal?

Woman: No, the bottle says once a day is fine.

Man: Let me know if they work. I might try some, too.

Question: What does the man want to know?

20 Question c.

Woman: The company hasn't paid us yet.

Man: Really? We should contact them right away.

Woman: Yes. We need the money by tomorrow.

Man: The boss will be very angry if this doesn't go well.

Question: Why do the man and the woman need to contact the company right away?

21 Question d.

Woman: No clouds in the sky. It's too nice a day to work in the office.

Man: I agree. But we have to finish this report by five o'clock. It is for the meeting tomorrow morning.

Woman: Take it easy. You always worry too much.

Man: OK, Let's have lunch outside then.

Question: Why do they decide to have lunch outside?

22 Question e.

Man: What do you want to do this Saturday? It's my day off.

Woman: That's great. How about going to the movies? I hear there's a good science fiction film playing.

Man: Sounds good to me. I'll check the movie schedule.

Woman: Let's try to go to a late show so we can have a lovely dinner first.

Question: What will they probably do first on Saturday?

Training yourself to deliver a good public speech will be helpful in many ways. It may not be easy, but you will have more control and success in social situations.

First, looking confident is important, and you should start doing this even before you stand up to walk to the stage. You may feel terrible inside, but if you really act confidently, the audience will listen to you, and you will soon start feeling better yourself.

Second, speak from your heart. Don't read out the sentences from your notes. That's very boring. Say each idea freshly while looking at people in different parts of the room. Use pauses and stress effectively to draw attention to your key words.

Third, play with your voice so that sometimes it's higher, sometimes lower, sometimes fast and sometimes very slow. There are many techniques to practice that can make your speeches great.

Mike: I'm so excited to go on a trip like this! I can't wait to see the Hawaiian beaches.

Mother: Calm down, Mike. This airport is very crowded. You don't want to get lost, do you?

Mike: Don't worry, Mom. I won't go anywhere. By the way, what time is our plane leaving?

Mother: It's leaving at 5:00 p.m.

Mike: We still have more than one hour, don't we? Let's try going to that restaurant. I want to eat something before the flight.

Mother: No, we can't. We have to get on the plane an hour before the actual flight, so we have to get going soon.

Mike: Oh, no. Then can I go to a shop to get something to eat?

Mother: OK. How about that shop over there? You can find a sandwich or something.

Mike: Well, I feel like eating something sweet rather than a sandwich.

Mother: You may also find some sweets there. Why don't you go and have a look now? We can't stay here for a long time, you know.

Mike: Will you come with me? I'm too worried about getting lost.

Mother: Come on! It's just over there. You should be old enough to go by yourself. I'll be staying here and watching you all the time, so just go!

Mike: Well... I think, maybe I'm not so hungry.
