18 Question a. Woman : I've finished all my homework.
Man : You're already done? How did you finish so quickly?
Woman : I worked on it every night last week.
Man : Well done! Now you can really enjoy the party tonight.
Question : Why does the man praise the woman?

19 Question b. Man : Who were you talking with at the school gate?
Woman : He used to be my junior high school teacher.
Man : Oh, really? I thought he might be your father.
Woman : No. His daughter is in our school. He was there to pick her up.
Question : Why was her old teacher at their school?

20 Question c. Woman : I'm really impressed you won the prize.
Man : Thank you. I was lucky and I had a lot of support.
Woman : Don't be so modest. You should be proud of yourself.
Man : I feel my team should get the praise.
Question : Which statement is true about the man?

21 Question d. Man : How much is this camera?
Woman : That's a great camera. It's on sale now for $180 including tax.
Man : It's still too expensive for me. Do you have anything less expensive?
Woman : How about this one? It's $150 plus tax.
Question : How much is the camera that the woman first recommends?

22 Question e. Man : Goal! The Japanese team is three goals up and there are only ten minutes to go!
Woman : That's nice. Can I change the channel, Dad? There's a funny show on Channel 2.
Man : No, you can't! Go and watch the small TV in your bedroom.
Woman : Alright. Good night, then.
Question : What is the girl going to do next?

それでは英文を読みます。

25/26

Plastic is useful. It's light, cheap, and waterproof. We're surrounded by plastic goods such as bags, bottles and food packages. However, once they're thrown away, their usefulness easily turns into harm to the environment. According to some research, if no action is taken, the ocean is expected to contain more plastic than fish by 2050. Even today, it is estimated that there are more than 150 million tons of plastic waste in the ocean. Besides, every year at least eight million more tons find their way into the sea. As a result, what do you think is happening? Fish easily mistake plastic waste for their natural food. Many sea animals are caught up in old plastic fishing nets and are slowly killed. Moreover, plastic also causes water pollution. Over the years, it will enter our food chain and affect our health.

それでは会話文を読みます。

29/35

Michael : You speak English so fluently, Nozomi. Where did you learn it?

Nozomi : Thank you, Michael. I learned my English mostly in Saitama. I've never studied abroad.

Michael : Amazing! How is that possible?

Nozomi : Well, my school had a special program in junior and senior high school. I learned subjects like math and science in English. Actually, half of my classes were taught in English.

Michael : Did you have any difficulty understanding what your teachers were saying?

Nozomi : At the beginning, yes. But after about three months, I began to understand more and more.

Michael : I wonder, if so many of your classes were taught in English, do you think you were able to develop your Japanese fully?

Nozomi : It wasn't a problem at all for me, because I spoke Japanese at home. Also, some studies show that the students in such programs get higher scores than those in regular classes, even on their Japanese exams.

Michael : Really? Why is that?

Nozomi : Probably because they tend to develop a sharper sense of language than other students.

Michael : That's really interesting.

次に問いの文を読みます。

30/36 Question a. How does Michael feel about Nozomi's English?

31/37 Question b. How did Nozomi learn English?

32/38 Question c. How long did it take Nozomi to understand what her teachers were saying?

Mika : Hi, Martin. I would like to ask you a question.

Martin : Is it about the English class this afternoon?

Mika : No, I'm just wondering which English exam to take. There are so many different kinds of them in Japan.

Martin : Basically, if you want to enter a university in Japan, any test will do. But it depends on your future goals.

Mika : I haven't decided what I'm going to do in the future yet. I just feel that English is really necessary, because I can communicate with a lot of people using English.

Martin : I see. But it's never too early to study for the English exams you are talking about.

Mika : Alright. I'll start from today. What should I do as the first step?

Martin : Well, you have to remember that nowadays those English tests have not only reading and listening, but also writing and speaking.

Mika : I can read English at home, but I don't know how to practice speaking.
